DEDICATION

To 3132, Frederic Rose Keator, who fired the compiler with the inspiration to undertake this pleasant but arduous task.

PREFACE

About thirty years ago, Frederic Rose Keator, then Secretary of the Holland Society of New York, suggested that we should join our researches and undertake the compilation of a family history. Alas, he died shortly after. My professional career occupied so much of my time and energy during the next twenty years that it was not until nearly ten years ago that I felt ready to begin the task. Although primarily a labor of love, and a semi-professional hobby, it has taken an incredible number of hours devoted to checking public and church records, both in printed and manuscript form; to interviews and a wide correspondence with living members of the family. The expense involved has been considerable, but that part that went for travel and exploration in the less populated areas of New York State could be chargeable to recreation.

A task like this can be started alone, but can only be completed by cooperation of nearly every living adult member of the family. Personal acknowledgement for data and information is due to so many cousins that the complete list is too long to print here. The symbol "†" following the name in the main sketch of any individual will indicate that that cousin contributed more than immediate family information.

Much of my research has been in libraries, civil government agencies, churches and cemeteries. To the officials and employees of all these, my appreciation and thanks for courteous service.

It is with a feeling of reluctance that I present this compilation. It is not finished, and there is always the hope that continued research will be worth while in clearing up mysteries and bringing the records of some more families up to date. Against this we must weigh the facts that many cousins feel I should wait no longer, and that alas I am growing no younger.

So with the knowledge that this work will furnish a definitive framework on which some future historian of the family will be able to build, and with the hope that it will be a mine of Keator-Cator data for many years to come, I cease and desist from further personal comment.

INTRODUCTION

Genealogies fall into two main groups depending where the records begin, and the direction in time they take. Perhaps the more common type is the family tree, or ancestral record, stemming back from a single individual to his remote forbears as far as they can be identified. The tree analogy is not too happy, as the leaves and small twigs represent the oldest instead of the growing part. The practical aim is to discover a possible strain of noble blood, an authentic coat-of-arms, or a distinguished military or civic record. We might name this the funnel type of genealogy.

This work, however, is one of the opposite type, it has its analogy in the cornucopia rather than the funnel. It is a family chronicle rather than an individual family tree, and its primary aim is to trace through three centuries and eleven generations the descendants of one Melchior Claessen, the sire of the Keator-Cator family in America, whose blood has flowed in the veins of some four thousand* descendants, about one fifth of whom are now living.

The arrangement is strictly genealogical, a chapter devoted to each generation. Since the book is a genealogy, with emphasis on names, dates, and places; and not a series of biographical sketches, there is little room for individual praise and certainly none for censure. Brief educational, vocational and military service notes, when the facts are known to the compiler, are sometimes included.

* The reader must not be misled by the discontinuity in the numbering scheme used in this work. Up to the last minute, expansion had to be provided for, without losing the genealogical order.

NAME

To TRACE THE EVOLUTION of our surname from antiquity is a research job too detailed and abstruse to be recorded in full on these pages. But enough can be stated to show how the name probably originated. Northeastern Holland (the present provinces of Friesland, Groningen, and Drente) was early invaded by the Teutonic ancestors of the Angles and Saxons, and formed, with that part of Germany south of Denmark (now Oldenburg and Schleswig Holstein), the district from which the Angles, Saxons and Frisians launched their historic migration to England.

This was, and is, strictly an agricultural district in which small farms and land holdings predominated. On these farms, a small and humble dwelling was called a kot (variously spelled as cot, kat, cat, or keet). From time immemorial a man who lived in one of these was called a kotter, a kater (pronounced as kotter), or a keeter, the latter spelling being an inflected* and probably a more modern form of kotter, and pronounced to rhyme with the English word lāter. It must constantly be remembered that in languages other than English, the full, or long, sound of a is ah while long e and ee have the sound of the English ā.

The early generations of our family in America used the spelling Keeter and Keter exclusively, so it is fair to assume that our surname originated in the manner above stated.

If, as some Keatorologists have previously assumed, our surname was originally Kater, this spelling would have been consistently used, and the name today pronounced quite differently, perhaps Kah-ter or Cotter. Kater, inflected into Kāter, or Keeter, seems to beg the question. It has been assumed in this latter theory that the surname did not come from Kotter, but from Kater, the Germanic word for the ordinary male house-cat. This idea is strengthened by the various heraldic cats used as part of the design of the coat-of-arms of the various Katers, Caters, DeCaters, etc. It seems that the name cat, or kat (its etymology hidden too far back in history to be determined exactly) has a close association with the old Germanic kot or kat (discussed above.) The compiler offers the theory that the name for the animal possibly was derived from that of the farm hut, as no doubt the former was domesticated in prehistoric days, and has always been closely associated with a farm.

Johan Winkler, in his dissertation on Dutch family names, (De Nederlandsche geschlachtsnamen . . ., Harlem, 1885. Sect. 131, p. 377.) states: "The family name Kater and deKater could have a very different origin than that of the word which means a male cat. A kater is a person who lives in a kate (keet or kot). The word kater, as the name for a peasant who lives in a keet or kate, on the estate of the main farmer, is used in some Saxon areas in our [Holland] country, and of Germany." A similar observation is made by J. van de Baan in his Genealogie van het Geslacht de Kater, 's-Gravenhage, 1891. Dr. Albert Hyma, professor of history at the University of Michigan, and to whom the compiler is indebted for the translation of the above adds: "The picture of a cat might have something to do with the name. . . but it was not customary to name people after lowly animals."

The earliest mention in America of the surname Keter or Keeter appears in the baptismal record* of Melchior Claessen's daughter on 8 Dec., 1678, where the mother's name is given as Susanna Keter. It is interesting to note that nowhere in the records of the Old Dutch Church in Kingston, up to 1810, does the spelling Keator appear. Keeter is recorded in 60 cases; Keter, in 52; Ketor, in 36. Some scattered spellings are Keder (2), Ketter (2), Kater (2), Geter (1), K pronounced gutturally sounds like a hard G, hence Geter, Getter, etc.

The second oldest church in Ulster County, and the one where the early generations of the family worshipped, is the First Dutch Reformed Church of Marbletown. The spelling Keator appears on its records for the first time 29 July, 1753, but it did not come into general use in them until 1782. Meanwhile the spellings Keatter and Keater were occasionally used. In 1796, Keter was resumed and not until 1825 did the form Keator prevail in the records of this church. The reason for this conservatism was no doubt due to the fact that the ministers of these churches continued to use the Dutch language in their sermons and records well into the 19th Century. Evidently the name was spelled as they pronounced it. In military muster rolls, however, the spelling Keator appeared as early as 1715, and was the prevailing military form from that period on. The 1790 U. S. Census for New York adopted the spelling Keater. The Ulster County records since 1800, have been filed under Keator. From the above statements we can assume the evolution of the name in America was either: Keeter-Keater-Keator, or Keter-Ketor-Keator. Or possibly a combination of these.

* cf. Baptismal and Marriage Registers of the Old Dutch Church of Kingston. . ., edited by Roswell R. Hoes. New York, 1891.

When the family began to migrate outside of the county of Ulster, where the Dutch traditions of customs and language lingered, to areas settled predominately by Yankees (Delaware County, for instance) it became difficult to reconcile the pronunciation Kāter with the spelling Keator. To this day, strangers unfamiliar with the name continue to rhyme it with heater and skeeter, and it usually must be spelled out in localities other than in the Hudson Valley. So some families changed to Cator, and in one instance Cater.* Other modifications made by the emigrants to other states were Kator and DeKeator. Where the name has once been established legally, however, the spelling Keator, in spite of its illogical pronunciation, has endured.

Before leaving the discussion of our surname, it should be noted that in the first pioneer days at Kingston, Keter had a serious rival in the patronymic Claessen (i.e., son of Nicholas). Melchior used this exclusively in all the records so far discovered. The same usage prevails in the church records of his daughters. Had it not been for the consistent use of Keter by 2. Nicholas, it is possible that we would all be Claessens, and the research on our surname unnecessary.

A study of given names prevalent in the Keator family brings out some interesting facts. The two original family names—*Melchior (Melchert, Melgert) and Nicholas, persisted only to the third and fifth generations respectively, while Thomas and Frederick, names of VandeMark ancestors, are still in common use. John, Cornelius, Matthew, Jerman (from Jeremiah), and Peter were favorites in the middle generations. Susanna, the name of our American ancestress, in its English form Susan, has been used in nearly every generation. Variety in women's names was slight in the earlier generations. Mary (Maria), Anna, Catherine ('Tryntje), Gertrude, Harriet (Ariaantje), Margaret ('Grietje) Sarah (Seletje) and Jane accounted for the majority used. After 1800, the custom of naming girl children after their two grandmothers originated, and all during the 19th century we find numerous Sarah Janes, Mary Elizabeths, and the like.

* Most Caters in America are of British ancestry, and the name is of different derivation. It is possible, however, that some Cater families in Central New York may belong to the Keter-Keator line.

 Melchior, of Hebrew derivation means "King of Nights." Those steeped in Christmas lore will recall the name of the three magi Melchior, Kaspar and Balthazar. They were also known as the three "kings of Cologne," and favorite given names among the Germanic peoples.

 The Dutch ministers, in their baptismal records, invariably used the Latin form Maria, for Mary; and Jacobus, for James. Other latinized forms occasionally used were Johannes, Petrus, and Hieronymous (Jerome!)

COAT OF ARMS

THE TYPICAL AMERICAN, however scornful and skeptical of the trappings of European nobility he may be, has a deep yearning to find and adopt a coat-of-arms, or at least a crest, to which he feels he is entitled—some family distinctive symbol to use on note paper, seal, signet-ring, automobile door, or bookplate. The Keators have been no exceptions. The first question asked of the compiler has usually been: do we have a coat-of-arms? The answer is a qualified negative—none that can be definitely identified. The theory underlying the origin of the name Keter precludes the possibility the family was originally enobled, or land-holding. It is also true, however, that many families native to that section of Europe (see above), bearing similar names, moved to other parts of Holland and Germany, and some of these did attain distinction or wealth enough to acquire a shield. J. B. Rietstap, in his monumental Armorial general (Gouda 1884/87), one of the classic works on European heraldry, illustrates 34 coats-of-arm, under family names Cat, Cater, Cats, Cotter, DeCater, DeKater, Kat, Kater, Katte, Kets, Kot and Kotter. All these surnames are derivations of the original Kat, Kot, or Keet. Practically each one of these shields displays a heraldic cat, although some more distinctive agricultural symbols may also be found. Is this cat employed to symbolize primarily the animal or the dwelling after which it was probably named? The compiler adheres to the latter theory.

MARBLETOWN AND OVER-THE-MAP

THE CRADLE OF THE KEATOR FAMILY in America was Ulster County, N. Y., particularly that part of the township of Marbletown, which about 1840 was incorporated in the township of Rosendale. The ancestral home undoubtedly was a log cabin located somewhere deep within the area where the Shawangunk Mountain peters out in a series of high hills not far from the junction of the Coxing Kill with the Roudout Creek. It is a remote site even today, and at first the earlier generations of Keters must have depended on hunting and fishing for their food as much as for farming which in those days was rather primitive. It is small wonder that these sons, like Leatherstocking in J. Fenimore Cooper's novels, were expert scouts and sharpshooters and it is not strange that they gave a splendid account of themselves in the Colonial Wars and the American Revolution.

The earliest deeds of land transfer in the family are not on file at Kingston, the county seat of Ulster County, nor at Stone Ridge where Marbletown records are preserved. In a list* of freeholders of Marbletown in 1728, however, we find 2. Nicholas Keator. That the latter acquired his land by inheritance from his father Melchior is sound conjecture based on the negative evidence of not being able to trace any land purchases by Nicholas in contemporary records. This holding may have included the landmark known as the Bound Rock, the point where the boundaries of three townships—Marbletown, New Paltz and Hurley—intersected before Rosendale was formed and which was in the ownership of the family as late as the time of 1042. Nathan Keator. Not far from the Bound Rock, perhaps contiguous with the property on which it stands, is a century-old stone house, located on land which has been in continuous possession of the family since it was purchased by 35. Peter T. Keator.

The first one to break away from the Marbletown-Rosendale area was 10. Nicholas, who settled in Mombaccus, the name then given to the area covered by the township of Rochester, Ulster County. It was some 10 miles nearer to the receding Indian frontier. But it was not until the advent of the 4th generation, and after the winning of the American Revolution, that any relatively distant migration took place. Land bounties to veterans, and the opening to settlement of a large and fertile area in Central New York formerly ruled by the Iroquois Indians, were the activating causes. 28. Cornelius Keator, * cf. O'Callaghan. Documentary History of the State of New York. Albany 1849-51, Vol. III, p. 97.

and his brother 31. John. T., moved to Delaware County and founded that distinguished branch of the family. 48. Jacob settled in Montgomery County, and 65. Adam, in Schoharie.

The first to leave the state of New York to live elsewhere was 32. Lea Keator who married Thomas Kyte and moved to Sussex County, New Jersey ca. 1755 to found the Kyte family in America. 638. James Keator was brought to New Brunswick by his Loyalist uncle ca. 1810, and founded the Canadian branch. 171. George Keator, with most of his family, migrated to Wayne County, Michigan ca. 1840, and 713. Martin followed suit in 1855 to Newaygo County in the same state. These woodsmen were forced to move to newer states on account of the depletion of the Ulster County forests. Similar action was taken by 368. Hiram W. Keator (Cator), also a lumberman, who reached Rock County, Wisconsin, ca. 1850.

1252. James Elias Keator, the sire of the Louisiana group, settled in Louisiana ca. 1855. 1296. Simon J. Keator moved to Colorado ca. 1880 and many of his descendants live in Colorado and California.

Several Keator families migrated to Illinois in the latter part of the 19th century—788. Hiram, Belvidere; 789. Simon D., Belvidere; 974. Beers D., Tolono; 930. Joseph, Polo; 1180. Lemuel W., Geneseo; 1261. Jerman S., Moline, and their descendants live in all corners of the United States.

Enough has been shown above to illustrate how a typical Colonial family has spread over the United States and Canada. The later migrations into California, Florida, Connecticut, Texas and Washington (chosen to illustrate the scope) and other states have been numerous. The Keator family is far flung. Today it is represented in at least thirty states and three Canadian provinces.

FIRST GENERATION

1. MELCHIOR (MELCHERT, MELKER, MELGERT) CLAESSEN KETER, the founder of the Keator family of the United States and Canada was a professional soldier in the employ of De Westindische Compagnie, better known to us as the Dutch West India Company* and no doubt was retained in a similar capacity by the British after they captured Nieuw Amsterdam and renamed it New York in 1664. His name appears as the defendant in a court martial held 28 Dec. 1671. It seems that as a soldier he liked his schnapps (brandy) too well, and under the influence of this potent beverage, on Christmas Day, 1671, stepped over a low picket fence, and purloined a pair of socks from a widow's clothesline. He was adjudged guilty and sentenced to "run the Gantlope once the length of the fort . . . stript to the waste." Evidently he was not permanently cashiered for we find him still a member of the forts garrison in 1674, the date of his marriage.

Where and when was Melchior born? The only evidence we have is indirect. It is safe to say that he was born in the Netherlands. His name in the marriage record is followed by "van Amsterdam" indicating that he was born in, sailed from, or enlisted at the port of Amsterdam. We learned from our study on names that both MELCHIOR and KETER are likely of East Holland derivation, where teutonic nomenclature prevailed. As a soldier, Melchior probably enlisted in his late 'teens or early twenties. Enlightened conjecture would indicate he was born ca. 1645.

Under the date of 8 Apr. 1674, in the marriage records of the old Dutch Church in New York appears the following item:

"Melchior Claeszen, j.m. Van Amsterdam, en Susanna Richards, Wde, Van op fort, beyde wonende alhier." Translated: "Melchior Claeszen, young man (i. e. unmarried) from Amsterdam, and Susanna Richards, widow. From at the fort, both dwelling in this place."

*Unfortunately for this research, the home records of the West India Company previous to 1700 were sold at auction as waste paper in 1821. Cf. New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, vol. 20, p. 106, article entitled Archives of the State of New York.

Cf. New York State Historian, 2nd Annual Report, 1896. Vol. I, pp. 318-319.

Cf. New York Genealogical & Biographical Society Collections. Vol. I, p. 38.

Who was Susanna Richards? This has been a major problem and we can offer in solution only a guess. The tradition has been that she was the widow of a British soldier, a theory no doubt inspired by James Riker who in his Brief History of Harlem (N. Y. 1904) mistranslated the phrase "Van op fort" in the marriage record as "From Oxford." A safe assumption is that Richards is either a patronymic, or the name of a former husband. A search of the contemporary church records indicates that the person most likely to have met this requirement was Susanna Verplanck, the widow of Pierre Richards who came from Paris ca. 1660.

Late in 1674, or early in 1675, Melchior moved, or was sent, to Marbletown where he settled probably near the present village of Rosendale, and where the first three generations of the Keator family lived. From the beginning, he was a soldier of the local militia, although we do not find his name recorded until 1687, where it appears on "A List* of the Fottman of Capten Tomas Gershames Company" as "Melier Celeson." Ca. 1680, his name was appended to a petition of "Several Inhabitants of Esopus" for a minister of the gospel preaching both in English and Dutch, as "Melgar Claus."

The last record we have of Melchior (Melchert) was on 21 Sept. 1701 when he and Susanna acted as witnesses at the baptism of 15A. Lelie, dau. of Thomas Kinney and 4. Mary Melchertse. No doubt he died shortly after. Children, b. Marbletown:

SECOND GENERATION

2. NICHOLAS MELCHERTSE, the first to use the surname KETER, or Keeter, was born in Marbletown about 1675. Knowing the Dutch custom of naming the first born son after his father's father, it is fair to assume that Nicholas Melchertse was named after the father of Melchert Claessen (i.e. Melchert, son of Nicholas). The baptismal records of thee Old Dutch Church at Kingston are very fragmentary in covering the period 1672-1678. There is a hiatus from July 21, 1674 to April 18, 1675, and another extending from the later months of 1675 to March 1678. It is reasonable to assume therefore that Nicholas was born during this period because his parents were married in 1674, and his younger sister, Elisabeth, was born in 1678. The fact that he was in military service as early as 1692 would also indicate that he was born certainly not much later than 1675.

Although Nicholas was a freeholder of land in Marbletown, he inherited his father's military tradition. As early as 1692, he and his brother Rut (Richard) Melchertse were listed* as privates detached from Ulster County to serve in Major Peter Schuyler's Company defending the Albany frontier against the French. Nicholas is also listed as Sergeant of the foot company of militia of Marbletown under command of Captain William Nottingham in the Regiment of Ulster County under the command of Col. Jacob Rutsen.

Nicholas married (1) 19 Feb. 1699 (K) JANE, the dau. of Thomas VANDERMARK and Jacomyntje Jacobs. Jane was baptized 5 Jan. 1679 (K), and died before 1736. Children b. Marbletown:

7.	Melgert, bpt. 30 Mar. 1701 (K)	(after father's father)

 For genealogy of this family which claims descent from German-Dutch nobility, cf. the Van de Mark, or Van der Mark Ancestry, Minneapolis, 1942.

3. RUT (RICHARD) MELCHERTSE, b. ca. 1676, Marbletown. That the Rut Melgertse, listed with 2. NICHOLAS as one of the privates detached from Ulster County to serve in Major Schuyler's company defending Albany, was a son of Melchert Claessen may be conjectured as follows:

   a) Rut was born in Ulster County
   b) Melchertse, or Melgertse, patronymics of that day in Ulster County were available only to the children of Melchert Classen.
   c) He could have been born ca. 1676.
   d) The logical name for Melchert's second son would be that of Susanna's father, Richard. The Dutch form is "Ritsert" or "Rut" for short.

4. MARY MELCHERTSE, known also as MARY CLAESSEN, b. ca. 1677, Marbetown. She was possibly the first-born dau. of Melchior, as she was a witness at earlier dates than her sisters. With Cornelius and Jane Cool, she witnessed, 14 July 1700 (K), the baptism of her niece Susanna; and with Jacob Van der Mark, her nephew Melchert, 30 Mar. 1701 (K). She was probably the wife of THOMAS KINNEY, and the mother of Lelie, baptized 21 Sep. 1701 (K) at which her parents, Melchior (Melchert) and Susanna were witnesses. Thomas Kinney no doubt was a close male relative of Debora Kinney who m. 7. MELGERT. Child, b. Marbletown:

6. ANNA CLAESSEN KETER, bpt. 18 June 1682 (K). Witness, with Peter Oostranden, 30 Nov. 1707 (K), of her nephew 10. NICHOLAS; also with Johannes Miller, 28 June 1719 (K), of her namesake Anna Smith, dau. William Smith and Eva Miller. She was possibly the wife of said Johannes.

THIRD GENERATION

7. MELGERT KEATOR, b. Marbletown, bpt. 30 Mar. 1701 (K), d. 1793, Marbletown. Farmer, woodsman, cooper, militiaman. His will, dated 1 Feb., 1777, and probated 28 June, 1793, is signed by his mark, a well-shaped M. His land holdings embraced several acres, mainly woodland, on the foothills of the mountains immediately back of the old Walkill Valley (now N. Y. Central) Railroad at Rosendale. The "Coxing Waggon Path" mentioned in the will is today a third-class highway leading up the slope at the upper end of Keator Avenue in Rosendale, and passing over the mountain down to Bruceville and High Falls.

Melgert (or Melgart, as his name was often spelled. The pronunciation was the same) served at different times as Assistant Trustee of the Marbletown Corporation; as Fence Viewer, a responsible position in a frontier community; and founder of the Marbletown Reformed Dutch Church. He served in the Foot Company of Militia of Marbletown, 1738, under Captain Daniel Brodhead and his own brother, Sergeant Thomas Keator. He signed the AA in 1775.

Melgert m. 26 Feb., 1725 (K), DEBORAH KINNEY, b. at Elizabethtown (Elizabeth), New Jersey, of Irish extraction. Children, b. Marbletown:

48. JACOB KEATOR, JR., b. ca. 1750, Marbletown. Although the term "Junior" was often used in older records to denote comparative age, without reference to father and son relationship, this seems to apply to a son of 9. JACOB, as all other contemporary Jacob Keators are accounted for. He served in UCM 3. He is probably the Jacob Cator who migrated to Montgomery County, N. Y., where he is listed as a resident of Canajoharie township in the 1800 U. S. Census.

49. STEPHEN KEATOR, b. ca. 1752, Marbletown. The Stephen Keder who served in the 4th Regiment, New York Line, under Colonel James Holmes, and the Stephen Keddar of the 2nd Regiment of the Line, were undoubtedly the same individual. For the sake of the record, he has been placed as a son of 9. JACOB KEATOR.

*The nomenclature here is interesting. According to the 1790 U. S. Census, the name was Peck, although the Dutch records use "Pick" and "Pik." Jeremiah's popular name was "Jerman" or "German." This is the origin of one of the most distinctive names in the Keator family.

62. BENJAMIN KEATOR, b. Marbletown, bpt. 24 Apr., 1737 (K). So far, it has been impossible to distinguish between this Benjamin and 51. Benjamin. Each were signers AA, Marbletown, but neither served in the militia, nor appeared as heads of families in the 1790 U. S. Census of New York.

64. ABRAHAM KEATOR, b. Marbletown, bpt. 1 Mar., 1741 (K). Signer AA, Marbletown. Served UCM 1. The accompanying families fit neither this Abraham, nor 39. ABRAHAM, but for want of a better place are assigned here. An Abraham Keator m. MARY, bpt. 19 Oct., 1735 (K), dau. of Jan WELLS and Margaret McLean. 65. ADAM KEATOR, b. Marbletown, bpt. 10 Apr., 1743 (K), d. after 1790 in Schoharie County. His military record is well documented. He enlisted first, 1761 in Capt. Richard Rea's company from the counties of Albany, Ulster and Dutchess to form part of the 1st N. Y. Regiment under command of Colonel Michael Thodey. The muster roll gives a personal description—"age 18, height 5 ft. 10 in.; complexion 'swarty'; eyes, black; hair black." He was listed as a private soldier in both the 2nd and 4th regiments of the New York Line. (cf. New York in the Revolution, Albany, 1897.) The 1790 U. S. Census lists his family as residing in "Schoharie Town" of Albany County.

67. WILHELMUS KEATOR*, b. Marbletown, bpt. 26 Jan., 1752 (K). Shoemaker by trade as noted in his pension application. Wilhelmus saw as long continuous service in the Revolutionary armies as any Keator with the possible exception of his brother Adam. He enlisted 14 Aug., 1775 as a private in Capt. Jacobus Bruyn's Company, 3d Regiment of the N. Y. Line, Col. James Clinton commanding. In the muster roll, he is described as "laborer, 23 years old, 5 ft 11 in. tall, fair complexion, red hair." He also saw service in the 1st Regiment of the N. Y. Line under Col. "Van Scoyet" (Van Schaick). Mustered out in 1885 after 7 years, 6 months, 26 days of service. Due to irregularities in his pension application he seems never to have been granted one.

No record of marriage or children, although listed in the 1790 Census Marbletown as head of family, with three women folk.

*There is some evidence to prove that William Getter, the founder of the Getter family in Schoharie is this William Keator, but this thesis is yet too conjectural to develop here.

72. BENJAMIN F. KEATOR, b. Marbletown, bpt. 26 Apr., 1741 (K). Signer AA, Marbletown. Served in Col. Morris Graham's regiment of Dutchess County Militia. No record of marriage. The 1800 and 1810 U. S. Census reports for Marbletown indicate him as living alone, but employing several slaves.

The township of Rosendale, formed from portions of New Paltz, Hurley, and Marbletown, was incorporated in 1844. The term for the locality, however, was used well back into the 17th Century, and included that part of Marbletown in which a large number of Keator families resided.

107. JOHN C. KEATOR, b. 14 July, 1756, Marbletown; d. 12 Oct., 1847, Roxbury; killed by a falling tree, in his 92nd year. He was truly a pioneer, settling ca. 1796 in the Batavia Kill district of Roxbury, then ten miles from the nearest settlement at Dean's Corners. Signer AA, Marbletown. His Revolutionary military career was interesting as shown by his pension application* at Washington (Book E, vol. 4, p. 92 # 24733) and granted 22 Feb., 1834. He served in the Orange County Militia regiment under Col. John Hathorn, and later in the N. Y. Levies under Col. Albert Pawling. While stationed at Fort Clinton, he helped lay the famous chain across the Hudson and while in the Levies helped defend the then frontier of Ulster County at Shandaken. No doubt it was during this sojourn, he acquired the ambition to penetrate still further into the wilderness. John C. with his large family and numerous descendants is the principal ancestor of the well-known Keator Reunion group. See footnote under 1538 ROSE AMELIA KEATOR.

Cornelia possibly married twice also, mentioned in the 1816 will of her brother Joseph, as "Nelly Garrison, wife of James Garrison."

settling along the upper reaches of the Batavia Kill. He was too young for military service in the American Revolution, but he was associated with it in a romantic way. Among the prisoners-of-war captured by George Washington in the Boston campaign was a Benjamin White, born in Wales. He was paroled to live in Ulster County where he married Lovina Totten, b. Mar., 1761, in Dutchess County. Their first born was MARY ("POLLY") WHITE, b. 28 Oct., 1777, who became Joseph Keator's wife ca. 1796. 128. JACOBUS (JAMES) KEATOR, bpt. 18 Dec., 1768 (M). Not being mentioned in father's will of 1824 would indicate he probably died previously to that date. A James Keetor appears in the 1800 U. S. Census for Greene County, Coxsackie District, age given in the 26-45 year group. (Our James would have been 32.) A James V. Cater appears in the 1810 U. S. Census for Greene County, Windham district: James age is given as born before 1765, however. 130. LEA KEATOR, bpt. 19 Dec., 1773 (M). In her father's will of 1824, Lea is mentioned as "Lea Inman," and the presumption is she married either Israel Inman, the first white settler of Roxbury, or more likely one of his sons. Child, also mentioned in the will:

446. Polly (Mary), living in 1824.

131. GIDEON KEATOR (Cator), b. 6 Jan., 1775, Marbletown, d. 13 Apr., 1833, buried in the Roxbury Baptist Cemetery. In general however this practice was not legally recognized, and some of Gideon's grandsons reverted to the use of the original spelling. Gideon's early years were spent in Rhinebeck where he m. 15 May, 1794, POLLY (MARY), b. 10 Apr., 1775, Rhinebeck, dau. Peter KIPP, bpt. 28 Feb., 1725 (K) and Charity Van Keuren. Children:

724. JACOBUS ("COBE") KEATOR, bpt 21 Apr., 1805 (M), d. after 1870, Marbletown, offers a difficult problem of identity. Learning from a grandchild however that he was generally known as "Cobe" and that he married twice, the compiler has selected the above as better fitting the facts than 582. James. Cobe's father was a pioneering woodman and it was logical that he become the pioneer he did in Olive. On the other hand there is the paradox of Cobe, after his second marriage, settling down to ordinary farming, and changing his name to "James F." With the reservation that the above identification may possibly be in error, the compiler offers the family data herewith:

*The Annual Keator Reunion was established 21 Sep., 1911, when Rose Keator Bolster and 1543. NELLIE KEATOR DRESSER (now Briggs) invited all the Keator relatives they knew to a picnic held at the farm home of Arthur G. Bolster on the Brackle road near Cincinnatus. Since that time, the group has met every year excepting two of the early years, and the war period of 1953 to 1945. At first, the picnics took place in September, after the hay and oats harvest and before the corn was ripe. Since 1929, however, the Reunions have been held in June; and since 1946, at the Gilbert Lake State Park, near Oneonta. The postal card invitation advises: "All relatives are cordially invited. Bring silver dishes and sandwiches for family, and covered dish." The compiler had the privilege of attending the 1946 Reunion picnic as the guest of 2254. HARRIET WEDGE. It was a highly enjoyable occasion. And the food in each "covered dish" a joy! Although "all relatives" are included in the invitation, the attendance has been practically limited to the descendants of 107. JOHN C. KEATOR, nearly all of whom live in Delaware, Cortland, Chenango, and Otsego counties.

NAME INDEX

DIRECTIONS—

THE NUMBERS refer to individuals in the genealogy, not pages.

Two series of individual numbers are employed:

1. Every person in the direct line is listed once as a child. Consult inside series of numbers.

2. Individual sketches as heads of family. Consult marginal series. Names allied by marriage are found in this series.

To trace your line back, start with your number in child's list. You will find father's number at head of sketch in margin. Then check back to father's number as a child. Then to marginal number of his father, etc. Family lines other than Keator (and its variant spellings) can be traced only to earliest marriage alliance.

BACKGROUND READING

For those cousins who may enjoy making a wider acquaintance of the historical background of early Colonial New York by way of a pleasant course of reading, the compiler lists the following titles, most of which may be found in the larger public and college libraries. They are not necessarily the most comprehensive, but ones which, in the compiler's mind, will give both pleasure and profit.

Evolution of the Dutch Nation, by B. H. M. Vlekke. N. Y., 1945.

New Amsterdam and its People, by J. H. Innes. N. Y., 1902.

The Dutch Element in American History (in American Historical Association Annual Report, 1909).

The Founding of American Civilization; the Middle Colonies, by T. J. Wertenbaker. N. Y., 1938.

The American Revolution in New York, by N. Y. State Division of Archives and History. Albany, 1926.

The Yankee Exodus; an account of migration from New England. N. Y., 1950.

THE KEATOR SUCCESSION

It is an interesting fancy to determine, as if it were a royal dynasty, the line of succession from Melchior I, the founder of the Keator family in America. The chart below indicates the male line, with years of incumbency.

1.	Melchert I	(to 1710)
2.	Nicholas I	(1710-30)
7.	Melchert II	(1730-93)
19.	Nicholas II	(1793-1820)
91.	Jacob	(1820-38)
337.	William I	(1838-70)
1374.	George	(1870-1927)
2102.	William II	(1927-44)

FOREWORD

This publication, designed to be fitted into the covers of the original volume, the KEATOR FAMILY IN AMERICA, New York, 1955, has been issued for a threefold purpose—to bring the vital statistics up to date, to complete a few collateral lines, and to correct some errors. Regardless of how meticulously the proof reading was done, a few printing errors slipped by. The compiler however wishes to mention the correction of two major errors, on the receipt of evidence secured since the book was published.

In the case of Susanna Richards, our first American ancestress, a careful inspection of the original holographic record of her marriage to 1.Melchior Claessen Keter, as inscribed in the original TROUW BOECK of the old Reformed Dutch Church of Nieuw Amsterdam, now preserved in the archives of the Collegiate Reformed Church of New York, shows that she is reported as coming Van ox fort (i.e., from Oxford) instead of Van op fort as originally transcribed for the printed record published as Volume I of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society Collections. This publication, noted for its accuracy, was accepted by the compiler as a primary reference without checking further. An exceptional procedure for the latter.

The other error (cf. 111.Joseph Keator) was based on a wrong assumption, good as far as it went, but not taking in evidence a fact that was then unknown to the compiler; viz., there was actually a Polly Wight not mentioned in the Wight Genealogy, as well as a Polly White living in the district which later became a part of Delaware County, N. Y. This evidence was brought to the attention of the compiler by 1649.Irving Sands Olds.

The corrections and added material will be arranged upon the following pages under sketch numbers. All names mentioned will be listed in the supplemental index. Although this publication is primarily a supplement to the KEATOR FAMILY IN AMERICA, and follows the same arrangement, abbreviations, sketch numbering, etc., it has some additional value for including many complete sketches of cousins not mentioned in the original.

Two corrections, however, pertain only to the introductory pages of the book. On page 7, line 8, the proper spelling is Rondout; and on page 8, last line, note that there are now forty-six states where the Keator family is represented.
